

SESSION 6: THE OTHER RELATIONSHIPS

► WELCOME TO THE INTERACTIVE DIGITAL SESSION GUIDE

We created this guide to help you process and personalize Jim's content. It contains two sections: Notes and Personal Reflection.

Use the first section to take your own notes during the video. Your notes are private and no one else can read them. We have also provided a downloadable PDF if you would like to print them.

Work through the questions in the second section at your own pace. We suggest you spend at least 15 minutes. The goal isn't to finish quickly; instead, consider how these principles might impact your parenting and your life.

NOTES:

PRINCIPLE EIGHT: Wear Beige and _____

- Do it _____. Let go of _____.

PRINCIPLE EIGHT: WEAR BEIGE AND KEEP YOUR MOUTH SHUT.

- What is implied by Jim's principle about wearing beige and keeping your mouth shut?
- From blockbuster films to angsty conversations between close friends, the words "in-laws" and "stepfamilies" certainly carry a lot of baggage. Why do you suppose this is?
- When you extend grace to your son and/or daughter-in-law and family, how will it likely influence your relationship with your own adult child?
- "Protect your family and do the right thing." How does this statement work in a practical way with your family?
- There is no rule that says you must like your adult child's new partner or family, but it makes sense to be as honorable as you possibly can to them. What are some ways you can show honor—even with difficult people?

ADDITIONAL QUESTIONS FROM THE BOOK

When it comes to in-laws and stepfamilies, do you agree or disagree with the principle "Wear beige and keep your mouth shut"? Share the reasons for your response.

When you were younger or first married, were you ever on the receiving end of criticism from an in-law? If so, what insights might that experience provide to keep you from criticizing your inlaws now?

Share an illustration of how you or someone you know violated the principle, "Don't make your child choose between you and their new family." What happened as a result? In what subtle or not-so-subtle ways might you have pressured your child to make this choice? How might you guard against doing this?

What unique relational pressures do you experience with your adult children around the holidays or on special occasions? What can you do, or have you done, to navigate family times well?

What was the best guidance for you in this chapter? Share the reasons for your response.

PRINCIPLE NINE: BEING A GRANDPARENT MAY BE YOUR GREATEST LEGACY

- What does it personally mean for you to leave a legacy for your grandchildren?
- In order to maintain a close relationship with your grandkids, living in close proximity isn't a requirement. How can you use technology to stay connected?
- If you live close, are you willing to be the "chief babysitter"? Why or why not?
- How might you be reinventing your relationship with your own kids when you become a grandparent?
- If you are already a grandparent, do you find it difficult to keep your mouth shut and to follow the rules set by your adult children? Which rules (or lack of rules) bother you most?
- What does it mean for you to be a "fully-engaged grandparent"?

ADDITIONAL QUESTIONS FROM THE BOOK

What do you like best about being a grandparent? If you are not yet a grandparent, what do you most look forward to about being a grandparent?

Looking back, how would you describe the influence your grandparents had on you? Was the influence direct or indirect? Positive or negative? In what ways does your experience (or lack of experience) with your grandparents shape the influence you hope to have in the lives of your grandchildren? What kind of a legacy would you like to leave them?

What family traditions do you most want to celebrate with your children and grandchildren from year to year? What do you hope they remember most about you because of these traditions?

In what practical ways might you support your adult children in their role as parents?

When you have breathed your last breath, how would you like to be remembered by your grandchildren?

SPIRITUALLY SPEAKING

This section is for those who would like to think about the content from a Christian point of view.

"Do nothing out of selfish ambition or vain conceit. Rather, in humility value others above yourselves" (Philippians 2:3 NIV).

- How could this Scripture be an important building block to a relationship with someone you don't necessarily like?

"Outdo one another in showing honor" (Romans 12:10 RSV).

- How can you show honor when people are not honorable to you?

"Good people leave an inheritance to their grandchildren" (Psalm 13:22 NLT).

- This could refer to material wealth, which is great... but what kind of inheritance—what kind of legacy—lasts forever? Knowing you have a God-honoring legacy to leave, how might this affect the conversations and relationship you have with your grandkids?

"Children's children are a crown to the aged . . ." (Proverbs 17:6 NIV).

- You may not be feeling "aged," but how can your grandchildren be your crown?
